Rep. Ford bombarded with petitions, letters

City could spark national drive to prevent loss of postal services

A national grassroots campaign to prevent the loss of postal services to small communities may have its start in Romulus.

Mayor James C. Stewart took time out from his schedule during the National League of Cities convention in Washington, D.C., last week to present Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) with hundreds of petitions and individual letters from Romulus senior citizens protesting the possible loss of postal services.

"Citizens drafted the petitions protesting the removal of postal carriers from the post office," Stewart said in a conversation from Washington. "It was my duty to inform the congressman."

Ford is the ranking Democrat on the Postal Service and Manpower subcommittees of the House Post Office Committee.

Upon receiving the petitions from Stewart, the congressman said, "I'm hoping this is just the first effort of a strong national grassroots campaign by the patrons of the post office to show their concern over the random closing of so-called 'unprofitable' postal facilities."

Ford received the petitions from Stewart on the eve of a meeting with U.S. Postmaster General Benjamin Bailer demanded by the congressman to explain the reason the Romulus operation was being phased out.

It was exclusively reported two weeks ago in the Romulus Roman that the carriers normally scheduled out of the Romulus Post Office would be working out of the Taylor Post Office. The starting date for the change in operations is April 24.

"I intend to ask some difficult questions of the postmaster to learn if the change in operations would adversely affect persons in Romulus," Ford said. "I'm seeking concrete assurances that people such as those who have signed the petitions presented to me by the mayor will not suffer with the change."

Postal officials in Romulus had indicated that while the postal carriers were to be scheduled out of the Taylor Post Office, other services now provided in Romulus — package mailing, stamp selling and the scheduling of registered and certified mail — would remain at the Romulus facility.

"I want assurance that the other services will remain," Ford said.

Stewart added that his concern is with people in Romulus who are accustomed to receiving their service in the city.

"We've worked for years to establish an identity for Romulus, and earned it by incorporating as a city," Stewart said. "As a result, senior citizens who needed food stamps or who were to receive their social security checks, had better service from a single office serving the community."

"Now, my fear is that will all change."

Stewart said many senior citizens took it upon themselves to write letters protesting the postal action instead of signing petitions.

"I think it will be very effective when the congressman presents the petitions," Stewart said. "I don't think even the post master general can deny senior citizens."

While both Stewart and Ford are fighting further erosion of postal services letter carriers have indicated that transferring the scheduling operation to the Taylor facility could have some adverse effects on service.

"It means that persons who are accustomed to delivery at a certain time of day, many have to wait longer, since travel time from Taylor will take longer," one carrier said. "The senior citizen, for example, who now gets his social security check in time to get to the bank and cash it the same day may not be able to cash it until the next day."

Romulus Mayor James C. Stewart reflects Post Office as he presents petitions to the grimness his Romulus citizens feel about Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) the reduction of operations at the Romulus District.

'Integration' proposal draws fire

Plan to move students irks board

At least one member of the Romulus Board of Education fears that the district may be sued in the federal courts over the district's present enrollment arrangement.

Board Trustee Gordon Silvey revealed his concern at a recent board of education meeting when he suggested that the district consider closing the two schools with the largest black student population as both a cost-saving measure and a means to avoid something "the courts could make us do anyhow."

Silvey ventured the opinion that the Beverly Elementary School and Romulus Elementary School should be among four school closings to be considered by the board as a means to cut operational costs during the 1976-77 school year, and as a means to distribute the schools' black students among other schools with largely white student bodies.

"I've discussed this in study sessions on the means to save costs in the district, and I'll discuss it in public," Silvey said. "I think the district ought to consider closing the Beverly Elementary School as a move toward integrating the school system before the court orders it."

In forming his opinion, Silvey considered a citizen task force recommendation which showed that the Beverly School ranked in the bottom half of the district's 11 schools when evaluated on its efficiency to provide educational services.

The three schools at the bottom of the list, Hayti, Gordonier and Romulus Elementary School, were considered for closing. The Beverly School ranked seventh.

Though Silvey's suggestion resulted in no action, it did draw fire from at least two board members and a resident attending the meeting.

Board members Jack Bath and Gloria Chandler attacked Silvey's proposal, stating it did not fall under the topic of discussion at the time — which was cutting some $1 million from the district's projected 1977-78 budget.

Bath was most outspoken in his criticism, stating: "I will never support any program in the Romulus School System that hints at integration."

"I won't have a Detroit federal court or a Cincinnati federal court telling us what to do. If the schools must be integrated by court order, it will be done without my vote."

He added: "We have a fine integrated community here with no racial problems."

"I see no reason to stir it up with a suggestion that we ought to integrate the schools."

Mrs. Chandler said: "The citizens' committee made the recommendation without discussing integration. I see no reason why this board should make its decision with that in mind, or why it has to come up at this table."

LaVerne McGee, whose children attend the Beverly school, said the neighborhood surrounding the school would oppose any closing for purposes of integration.

"First of all, I don't see why it has to be a black school which must be closed for integration, and don't see why our children have to be bused outside their neighborhood," Mrs. McGee said. "We love our neighborhood school, just like the people from other neighborhoods love their schools."

"Beverly's always the school in this system which is dumped on," she added. "I would hope the board gives the suggestion a lot of debate and consideration before going ahead with it."

Two oldest school buildings to close

The Romulus Board of Education has decided to take a big cost-cutting step next year to whittle down an anticipated $1 million budget deficit.

The board voted 6-1 Monday night to close the two oldest school buildings the district for at least next year in an effort to begin balancing an anticipated $10.7 million budget.

The Romulus and the Gordonier Elementary schools will not be reopened, despite a protest from board member Jack Bath that closing the schools before being assured of having full facilities available at both the new Hale Creek and Barth Road elementary schools was foolhardy.

At a meeting two weeks ago, the board's management consultant indicated there may be problems in having available all operations at both new schools before Oct. 1, though he assured the board that at least the classrooms and office facilities will be ready in time for the opening of school.

"The action goes a way toward shaving the anticipated deficit," said Supt. James Garfield. "But there still are problems ahead."

Garfield said the district still anticipates $9.7 million in revenues against $10.7 million in anticipated expenses.

Garfield said the closings were not permanent, since "the board still projects that once the economy picks up, so will the school population."

"We may end up reopening the schools at some time, but don't foresee that happening right away," Garfield said.

At present, he said the board is exploring the possibility of consolidating some of the operations scattered throughout the school system at one school — most likely Romulus Elementary School — and renting the other building for the year.

"There's a possibility that the board will rent the building to a business concern, putting the building on the tax rolls and providing some additional revenue for the school system," Garfield said. "But that's all in the formative stages now, and nothing's settled definitely."

Stewart snips strand

Romulus Mayor James Stewart marks the official opening of the city's new senior citizens' drop in center during ceremonies March 19 at the old Romulus DPW building. Senior Citizens' Coordinator Joan Haubrich (left); Celeste Fisher, president of the senior citizens' club, and Recreation Director Marie DeBuyscher look on. Stewart said the center will feature game tables, such as pool, for senior citizens and a place for them to just sit and chat. Presently, the center will be open during regular office hours — 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. — but the mayor is hoping to extend the hours to evenings and weekends. The center is located on Bibbins Street west of Shook Road. — Romulus Roman photo by Lothar E. Konietzko.

state honors. The elite team and the wrestling coach of the year appear on Page B-1 of the sports section in today's edition of the Enterprise - Roman.

Tax package set for voters in June

The taxpayers of Romulus will be asked a double-barreled money question June 14 when the Romulus Board of Education requests renewal of a 10-mill operating tax, which is expiring this year, and the approval of a new five-mill tax package.

The board set the millage date at its Monday night meeting after agonizing over closing the district's two oldest elementary schools as cost saving measures in an effort to shave an anticipated $1 million budget deficit.

The 10-mill renewal represents 36 percent of the district's locally raised revenue for operations, or approximately $1.83 million of an anticipated $9.7 million in revenues for the district for next year.

The five-mill package would raise $915,000 in new money at the normal collection rate.

Coupled with the closings of the Romulus Elementary School and the Gordonier Elementary School next year, Supt. James Garfield believes that the millage requests would cover an anticipated $1 million deficit.

But, there is a big "if" in the proposals.

"We have to see if the legislature acts as was predicted on state aid," Garfield said. "We're anticipating state aid in the amount to just balance the budget next year."

"If there is some change from what the governor recommended, then the district will face increased problems, despite any millage requested of the voters."

The June 14 tax increase proposition would result in the increase of taxes on a person's property at a rate of $5 for each $1,000 in valuation.

The renewal question involving the 10-mills, would keep taxes for school operations at the present $27.65 per $1,000 in valuation this year.

Board estimates anticipate a 92-percent collection rate on tax levies after considering delinquent tax payments in its calculations.

Commissioners react to new court order

Judges set no limit on 'hospital jail'

By HENRY CANTIN
Of The Enterprise Roman Staff

A Wayne County Circuit Court order directing the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to appropriate whatever money is necessary to convert a former county mental hospital building in Westland into a jail facility has prompted angry reaction from suburban county commissioners.

Particularly incensed are members of the board's Ways and Means Committee. The order by a three-judge Circuit Court panel composed of Victor J. Baum, John D. O'Hair and Thomas J. Brennan, forces the board to convert Building M, a three-story brick structure, located on the grounds of the Wayne County General Hospital, into a temporary jail.

"This has gone far enough," Commissioner Royce E. Smith (D), Belleville, declared. "These judges are usurping our legislative powers and I don't think we have to stand for it."

"We have taken the stand that no more money shall be spent on a temporary jail facility as long as the Wayne County Jail is operating near or below its supposed capacity," Thomas Presnell (D), Westland, and Smith said in a joint statement.

"Space for up to 250 prisoners has been provided at the Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo) at a cost of $765,000," they said. "Until a permanent jail can be constructed, we feel that the present county jail space is adequate. We are voting in favor of the taxpayer, not the prisoners," they added.

Members of the Ways and Means Committee last Thursday voted to ask the judicial panel to reconsider certain points of nine orders which the commissioners found most objectionable.

The commissioners also approved an amended version of a resolution directing the Wayne County corporation counsel to take legal action to determine the propriety of the three-judge panel's order and of maintaining the separation of powers between legislative bodies and the judiciary. The full board is expected to vote on the resolution today.

The board already has appropriated $1.5 million to convert Building M at Wayne County General Hospital into a temporary facility for 250 jail inmates.

The need for additional jail facilities arose when the three-judge panel imposed a 720-prisoner population limit on the county jail. Prisoners in excess of that figure are being housed at DeHoCo pending the readiness of Building M.

The county's attorneys also were instructed to ask the judicial panel to reconsider three of nine orders it issued.

The orders stipulated that daily progress reports converting Building M shall be submitted to a monitor appointed by the court, that the commissioners shall allocate additional funds as are "reasonably necessary" to pay for the project, and that the county treasurer shall pay all "reasonably necessary" funds for the project.

According to reports, the commissioners were particularly vehement about the idea of daily reports to the court-appointed monitor because the commissioners fought against paying for the monitors all the way to the Michigan Supreme Court. John Barr (D), of Dearborn Heights, board vice-chairman, described the order for a daily report as "an insult."

"I want to hire a monitor to study the judges," Commissioner Ervin A. Steiner Jr., (R), of Grosse Pointe Farms, said. "I'd like to know when they come in, their lunch hours, how many cases they handle. Let's see what they're doing and take it out of their budget. I want a daily report issued to the newspapers."

Other commissioners blasted the judicial panel for forcing the county to spend an estimated $5.5 million on temporary jail facilities.

Commissioner Edgar L. Harris (D), of Taylor, charged the judicial orders "take away our constitutional powers as the legislative body."

"With public services for the law-abiding citizenry cut to the bone and the county facing a deficit, I am opposed to spending another penny on temporary stopgap arrangements," declared Commissioner Mary E. Dumas (R), of Livonia.

Commissioner Richard E. Manning (D), of Redford, predicted renovation of Building M would cost more than the $1.5 million already appropriated.

In issuing its orders, the three-judge panel apparently was reacting to the fact that a joint meeting of two commissioners' committees had voted to recommend that no funds be expended on Building M until a report on the feasibility of converting a downtown Detroit warehouse building into a jail facility is received.

However, the recommendation by the two committees has not been considered by the full board.

The feasibility report of converting a former J. L. Hudson Co., warehouse into a jail is to be submitted by a "Blue Ribbon" task force by April 1. The task force appointed by Roscoe L. Bobo, chairman of the Board of Commissioners consists of an architect, engineer, state corrections officer and representatives of major organizations in the community.

Sponsors of the warehouse proposal claim they can be ready to accommodate 114 prisoners within eight months after the contracts are signed. There is speculation that the three-month renovation time for Building M actually would approach six months due to efforts of the Westland city administration to block the project through court action.

Westland officials already have filed a lawsuit opposing the renovation of Building M into a temporary jail.

The March 8 orders of the judicial panel also call for the "highest priority" be given to the renovation of Building M for a jail. The orders also direct the Wayne County Board of Auditors to prepare plans and drawings that will comply with all local codes and that the commissioners appropriate such additional funds that "are necessary."

The three judges noted the possible use of Building M as a permanent detention center instead of a temporary facility as indicated by the Board of Commissioners.

U.S. Postal Service needs federal subsidies

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Enterprise Roman Staff

The ranking Democrat on the House Postal Services and Manpower subcommittees of the House Post Office Committee believes that there is no other way to operate the U.S. Postal Service than with subsidies of federal tax dollars.

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District), a 12-year veteran of the House, said measures now being taken by the postal service to cut costs "could account to 1-18th of the cuts needed to eliminate the project deficit in the postal service."

The Taylor Democrat, whose district includes Belleville, Romulus, Canton Township, Wayne and Westland in its area, said the postal service is heading toward a $1.8 billion deficit in the fiscal year, and there just isn't a way to cover it other than with a subsidy.

"I do not believe the postal service was intended to be a money-making corporation," Ford added. "And I think we're learning it with this 13-cent, first-class postage rate, which virtually has the entire country up in arms."

"With each raise in the rates, comes a drop in usage, and a need for further rate increases."

"I'm afraid if we're to continue to serve the people, it will take more and more general fund revenues to do it," Ford said the only postage "class" which returns a "profit" to the postal service is first-class, but only with mail sent by large firms and the government which is already pre-coded for certain destinations.

"Contrary to the popular belief, the letter sent from family to family in this country does not return a 'profit' to the postal service," Ford continued. "The only way first-class postage returns a profit is when a majority of the manual tasks — sorting and bundling letters based on their destination — is done by the mailer."

"And that's done by larger corporations, banks and the government. When their mailing falls off, so does the economic stability of the postal service."

Ford said the hard economic times and the move toward electronic communication has cut deeply into the postal service, reducing use by many of its best customers.

"When General Motors' sales are cut in half in a year, that means that there are only half the customers mailing payments each month to a

Hearing to weigh economy

Those disgruntled about the economic health of the state and the nation are invited to present their feelings before the Michigan Democratic Party's Economy Subcommittee Saturday in Taylor.

The hearing, which starts at 10 a.m. and will be held at the UAW Region 1-E Hall, located at 9650 S. Telegraph Road in Taylor, is a prelude to drafting the economic plank for the Democratic Party's national platform.

Several members of the Michigan congressional delegation, including U.S. Sen. Phillip Hart, have been invited to testify.

Interested persons, or organizations, can present their testimony by signing up at the union hall, starting at 9:30 a.m. the day of the hearing.

Democratic Chairman Morley Wintegrad said currently economic proposals for the Democratic platform cover the areas of full employment, economic controls and decision making, inflation, tax reform and energy.

He came across the idea to put the telephone to work brightening people's lives, when several of his friends suggested he call their children on their birthdays, similar to the old Western Union messages that were sung.

Because of his handicap, Kukick is unable to handle jobs that require a large amount of body movement.

Residents interested in Kukick's singing telephone messages can contact him at the Apple Tree Lane Convalescent Center, located at 39000 Chase Road, Romulus.

Justice vindicated in Hearst verdict?

It could be that our legal system, much maligned over the past number of years for its alleged softness on criminals, may have received a certain measure of vindication this past weekend.

A jury of seven women and five men saw to that. They found Patricia Hearst guilty of bank robbery charges.

It wasn't an easy decision for the jurors to arrive at. Some said it was the most important decision they had ever been called on to make. Some wept. Some vomited. It was as much of an ordeal for them as it obviously was for Miss Hearst and her family. But they nevertheless found her guilty. After all the testimony had been given, the closing remarks made, the charge issued by the judge, it all boiled down to this: Was Patty Hearst a victim of brainwashing and did she do what she did out of fear for her life? Or did she wrap her testimony in a sheaf of lies?

When it was all over the jury simply did not believe her.

The trial also disproved one thing. All the Hearst publishing money and one of the highest priced and best known attorneys in the world could not buy Miss Hearst's freedom. That in itself is refreshing.

Board urged to be serious

To the editor: Now that the millage increase didn't pass, I believe the Van Buren School Board should do some very serious thinking about where it is going to make its proposed cuts. It's a shame any programs have to be cut, but the board says where must be cuts.

It makes me very angry that they can classify the learning centers with extra-curricular programs like music, art, sports and field trips.

I have been accused of pigeon holing importance. Well, maybe I am. However, what is the basic reason for going to school? It is to learn to read, write and do arithmetic. Without the learning centers children with learning problems can't learn these basic things.

They just take up space in the regular classrooms, or are the ones that disturb the rest of the class by fighting, talking at the wrong times or trying to be the room clowns. They take up more than their share of the regular classroom teachers' time.

These are the children that will drop out of school as soon as they can because not one person - child or adult - can cope with constant failure day after day. That is what special children get every day.

Reporter lauded for a 'nice job'

To the editor: Lee Smith did such an especially nice job on the articles for job placement that appeared in the Romulus Roman, I wanted to drop her a note of thanks. Not only were they well-written and well laid out, the timing was perfect. I was evaluated on Thursday morning as to what kind of job I am doing. The report was extremely favorable. I'm sure the newspaper articles helped influence the opinions of my superiors.

Kissinger rules out isolationism for U. S.

By TOM OCHILTREE
Panax Washington Correspondent

'...The United States ... must avoid the twin temptations of provocation and escapism.'

opinion of many observers, mark a turning away from the recent neo-isolationist mood in Congress.

The Cranston amendment calls on both the United States and the Soviet Union "to launch fresh initiatives" to eliminate areas of potential conflict and thus avoid the horror of nuclear war.

Clearly the resolution was in line with the philosophic principles outlined by Kissinger before the committee. Stressing the need for improving relations between Washington and Moscow. The Secretary of State said:

"In an age when two nations have the power to visit utter destruction on the whole planet in hours, there can be no greater imperative than assuring a rational and secure relationship between the nuclear superpowers. This is a challenge without precedent..."

However, this does not mean allowing the Russians to abuse the concept of detente as clearly was the case in Angola, he stressed.

"We must preserve stability, but not rest upon it," Kissinger said. "We must firmly resist and deter adventurism..."

"Exploiting local crises for unilateral gain is not acceptable. This nation will not seek confrontations lightly, but we are determined to defend peace by systematic resistance to pressures and irresponsible actions."

"The growth of Soviet Economic and military power could not have been prevented. What can be prevented is the use of that power to upset the global balance. Without restraint there is no possibility of a meaningful relaxation of tensions."

But if the Soviet Union follows reasonable international policies, the United States is prepared to enter into various economic, technical and other bilateral arrangements with Moscow which will give both countries an increasing stake in maintaining positive political relations, he pointed out.

To those who ask why the United States should be saddled with the often heart-breaking task of maintaining some semblance of world order Kissinger gave this reply:

"Two world wars in this century and the process of decolonization have broken down the international order of previous centuries."

The constable:

Should his authority be cut or abolished?

By WES THORP
Panax Lansing Bureau

If somebody asked you to name your local constable, chances are that you wouldn't be able to do it because of the obscurity of the office.

Every township in Michigan and many cities have at least one constable, one of the oldest law enforcement offices in the state.

State law, in more than 200 different laws, gives the constable the same authority as any other law enforcement officer. He can carry a gun without a permit and he can make arrests without a warrant.

But, he is not required to have any law enforcement training and he is not accountable to any higher authority. The local constable has a one-man law enforcement agency if he wants to use it.

And this is where serious problems are developing with many local units of government.

Township and city constables, in some jurisdictions, are interfering in the operation of regular law enforcement agencies, sheriff's offices, local police and the State Police."

There have been instances where a local constable will beat the sheriff to calls where a crime is in progress and when the deputies arrive, the plain clothes constable will have his gun drawn, ready for action.

Local law enforcers have been presented with the dilemma of not knowing whether the man is the constable or the crook, presenting the possibility of police injuring an innocent person.

State Rep. Mark Clodfelter, (D-Flint) has introduced two bills to remedy this situation in areas where this type of thing has been a problem. One bill would allow townships to abolish the office of constable and allow the township board to limit and clearly define the authority of the constable. And if the township chooses to allow its constable to make criminal arrests the law would require him to take formal police training.

The other bill would apply to cities, which have the power to abolish the office, but would allow them to limit the constable's authority.

Clodfelter, a first-term lawmaker, said many constables are enthusiastic law and order persons, who modify their personal cars by installing flashing lights and other paraphernalia and who carry guns.

To complement Clodfelter's efforts, State Rep. Thomas Brown, (D-Westland), has introduced a resolution to establish a special House Committee to study the constables positions and how it relates to modern day law enforcement.

Brown said the committee would examine references in state law to the constables and the authority they have.

State law mentions constables in more than 200 different places and gives them the same authority as other peace officers. However, Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has written opinions during the past decade which have attempted to curb some of their power.

The law says that constables are specifically responsible for certain things, including:

•Attending circuit court sessions, upon the request of the sheriff.

•Seizing and holding cattle, horses, mules, sheep and swine that are running at large in any public street in cities of over 7,000.

•Serving all papers issued in any prosecution or proceeding for the violation of any ordinance of the city or township.

•The killing and burying of rabid dogs upon the order of the court.

•The enforcement of state liquor laws in their jurisdictions.

The Michigan Sheriff's Association is supporting the efforts of Brown and Clodfelter. The association accuses the constables of interfering with law enforcement work and has called the office outdated.

Athletics more than a game at Michigan State

By BOB BERG
Panax Lansing Bureau Chief

Anyone who doubts intercollegiate athletics are a very important part of the total university should spend a little time looking at the situation at Michigan State.

The campus here, second largest in the country, has been rocked repeatedly over the past year by scandal and controversy in the athletic department.

President Clifton Wharton, by his own estimate, has spent 90 percent of his time trying to unravel the situation. There have even been threats from legislators of launching an investigation. Tensions have built on all sides as rumors ebbed and flowed around the campus and the state.

The situation hasn't been helped by Wharton's order that no one talk about what is happening in compliance with NCAA and Big Ten regulations. And as journalists have kept pressing for answers and printing accounts of varying accuracy, the normally unflappable Wharton has come close to publicly losing his temper.

The latest climax came when the Board of Trustees held a lengthy secret meeting in which it decided to fire former athletic director Burt Smith, football coach Dennis Stolz and basketball coach Gus Ganakas and his staff. It was a bloodless purge which would have made the Kremlin proud, done in total secrecy with none of the details of why it happened leaking out.

It was purely coincidental, Wharton said, that Ganakas was fired at the same time as the football people. But he and the rest of the administration and board have refused to say anything to explain their actions.

It was at the same meeting the board members let loose a good deal of pent-up emotion by blasting the news media in general for some reports that came out about its actions. Words like "irresponsible, shoddy, totally inaccurate" flooded forth.

But those who live by the sword die by the sword and the board, with its total secrecy, forces those who report on their actions to go to other sources for information. If the board were being totally open and truthful, there would be no need to look further.

Back in January when Dr. Wharton held a press conference to discuss the NCAA findings, a professor looked at the packed room and said "Gee, we didn't get that kind of a crowd for our last Rhodes scholar."

It has long been a sore point with some academic types that athletics get so much attention, but it is a fact of life. It was athletics, in fact, which helped a great deal to allow MSU to grow to its current size. Back in the 1940's President John Hannah, when determined to make MSU a major national institution, chose athletics - mainly football - to do the job and he succeeded.

It's a strategy the other large schools in the state have adopted in recent years as Central Michigan and then Northern Michigan won national football titles and Central and then Western Michigan won the Mid-America Conference basketball title and went to the NCAA tournament. Eastern Michigan recently hired former Detroit Pistons coach Ray Scott to handle its basketball team in a move seen as an attempt to win big. College officials all ruefully admit that a successful athletic program brings in students and money - the two things needed to build a university.

When Duffy Daugherty was head football coach at MSU he used to joke that football "isn't a matter of life and death. It's more important than that."

There was a lot of truth in that statement. All you need to see that is look at the situation here, and the grim countenance of the officials. It is a lot more than just a game.

years to keep the books straight and it is being resisted by Democrats on the House Appropriations Committee.

The reason for doing it is strictly a numbers game which makes absolutely no change in the money the state spends or takes in but does make a change, because of the way the state keeps its books, in the bottom line.

The rationale for doing it is this: The state makes school aid payments six times a year, every other month. Thus, while tax money for the payments comes in every month, it is paid out only every other month, building up in the interim. Since August is a payment month, and July and September aren't, by extending the fiscal year three months the state can count three months' revenues against what is actually two months' expenditures.

Gov. Milliken says that would mean $90 million. Democrats say it won't be half that and say they want some number to back up the governor's estimate. So far, they haven't received those numbers.

Thus it was that they defeated, at least temporarily, the bill to extend the fiscal year when it was considered in House Appropriations. But they know that they are only postponing a final decision, a decision that all signs indicate will be extension of the fiscal year as the best of a bad lot.

Gov. Milliken is preparing to force the issue by drawing up an executive order that would balance the budget by cutting another $90 million from the budget. This late in the fiscal year, that size of a cut would decimate areas such as mental health and corrections, which already are understaffed and trying to hold on.

It's a brinkmanship play on the governor's part, figuring he's offering the Democrats no real alternatives.

The Democrats, at least some of them, still hold out hope of an increase in the nuisance taxes on alcoholic beverages and cigarettes to provide at least a small cushion. They say maybe they can trade a tax increase for a budget year extension.

But the governor has dug himself into a deep hole on the tax increase question and will have to swallow a lot of his past rhetoric if he agrees to such a move.

If one were casting a scenario for what will happen, the governor's budget office will probably come up with some numbers purporting to support his contention the change would mean a $90 million budget break. That, in turn, will probably jar loose enough Democratic votes to report the bill out.

No one will be very happy with it. But they have no alternatives, at least none that have been brought forth so far.

Extending fiscal year - best of a bad lot

By BOB BERG
Panax Lansing Bureau Chief

Slowly, painfully, legislators move toward a way to balance this year's budget.

It's a situation no one likes involving alternate solutions no one likes. But sooner or later something will have to be done.

The big hangup is over the question of extending the fiscal year until Sept. 30. It is the most gimmicky of all the things that have been done over the past several

Bill would guarantee adequate road system

A bill, near passage in the State House of Representatives, could mean safer and more adequate county roads for those who drive in Ypsilanti and Van Buren Township, according to one state legislator.

House Bill 5439 would remedy the problem involving areas in a county which do not meet the required density to be called an urban area, but which are experiencing an increasing demand on the road system because of suburban development, State Rep. Gary Own, (D-22nd District) said.

Under the present law, county road commissions are allocated 35.7 percent of the total Motor Vehicle Highway Fund, which amounted to $182,659,896 in funds distributed to all Michigan counties last year.

Of the total amount returned to the road commissions, 10 percent is allocated for counties which have primary or local road mileage within the boundaries of urban areas. The remainder is distributed on the basis of rural county primary and county local road mileage, Owen said.

The legislator added that the present distribution formula does not recognize the strictly agricultural rural situation.

"It recognizes the undeveloped northern and Upper Peninsula road network needs," Owen continued. "And it recognizes the needs of established urban counties."

"However, it does not, recognize the needs of the in-between, or suburban bedroom communities. It does not recognize the specific problems of portions of Ypsilanti and Van Buren Township."

According to the lawmaker, the bill creates and defines a new category of road classification, called medium density, which would qualify counties containing such areas for addition Motor Vehicle Highway Funds.

It also would supply a source for these additional funds by changing the current Motor Vehicle Highway Fund to allow counties an additional 1.5 percent — an increase which would mean an additional $7.5 to $7.8 million annually allocated to counties with medium density areas.

Owen said Washtenaw County would stand to gain $65,975 and Wayne County an additional $90,131 if the House becomes law.

"I believe that this increased revenue is essential, if counties, such as ours, are to maintain the type of road network the citizens of the state need and deserve," he added. "I have supported this measure strongly in the House of Representatives and will continue to do so as it progresses through the Legislature."

Quirk Road School Scouts celebrate GSA's 64th year

Members of the Quirk Road Elementary School cluster of the Girl Scouts marked the 64th birthday of the organization with a potluck dinner recently.

The dinner had a Bicentennial theme of "Happy Birthday, America", and 300 members of the Brownies, Junior and Cadette troops attended.

Invited guests were presented with red, white and blue corsages and also Doreen Binder, principal of Quirk School; school secretary, and Joan Monforton, troop services director, accompanied by her husband, Bob.

A hearty thanks was given to all troop leaders for their "efforts and dedication" in working with the girls. Brownie Troop 354's leaders are Pauline Ostrowski, assisted by Rosalie Cartwright, while Brownie Troop 402 is led by Pat Twydell and Linda Tarris.

Junior Troop 487 is led by Oaklyn Smith, assisted by Danis Amador, and Junior Troop 587 is under the leadership of Normalee Wood and Pat LaMothe. Cadette Troop 340 is led by Bonnie Pavalat.

Flag bearers and color guards participating in the flag ceremony and representing all troops were Patty Clark, Tamera Smith, Lisa Amador, Stacie Wood, Toni LaMothe, Tammy Butts, Shelly Kincaid, Joelle Manzer and Laurie Dudash.

The girls entertained their families and sister troops with songs, dancing and skits. Brownie 402 square danced to the Virginia Reel, while Brownie of 354 sang the Brownie Smile Song and "It's a Small World." Juniors of 487 performed with presidents' quotes and "This Land Is My Land." Junior Troop 587 presented a skit entitled "Keep America Beautiful" and sang "America the Beautiful." Cadette Troop 340 concluded the entertainment with song and actions to "Happiness Is."

All the girls also were asked to light candles on March 12, at 5 p.m. with their families to join with Girl Scouts throughout the United States in celebrating Flames of Freedom.

Hot meals planned for senior citizens

Wayne County Commissioner Royce E. Smith (D-Belleville) has said daily hot-noon meals and other services will be available to Sumpter-area senior citizens beginning Monday.

Meals will be served at 12 p.m. Monday through Friday at the new Sumpter Senior Center, located at 24560 Sumpter, just south of the township hall, Smith added. The program is a service of the Wayne County Office on Aging.

"I'd like to see that all senior citizens get at least one good nourishing hot meal daily," Smith said. "Many live alone and for one reason or another, do not prepare proper meals for themselves. Good nutrition is especially important for the elderly."

Delivery of meals to shut-ins also may be arranged.

Persons aged 60 years or over and their spouses are eligible. A contribution of 50 cents per meal is requested, but not mandatory.

In addition to the meals, a number of other services will be provided without charge between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. They include recreation, health screening and education, information and referral counseling and legal aid.

The new site will bring to 23 the number of suburban locations that hot meals will be served by the Out-Wayne County Nutrition Program. Seniors need not be residents of the municipality in which a site is located in order to take advantage of the program.

Information is available by phoning 326-9600, or 326-9602.

Computer picks court

A random computer search through the names of students attending Huron High School has produced a form of "student court" which will hear grievances arising between teachers and students at the school.

The seven permanent members of the 1975-76 "Student Board" at Huron High are Lynn Fater, Steve Gillum, Mike Mancos, Jay Richert, Jerome St. Peter, Jeffery Tackett and Cindy Uhley.

The board is established to suggest avenues of clearing disputes between students and teachers at the facility.

A Belleville woman has been chosen "Employee of the Month" for February from among 250 employees of the Sentry Drug Store chain.

Ann Weser, the mother of four children, and an employee of the Sentry Drug Store on Michigan Avenue in Wayne, was chosen for the honor.

Her dream come true

Chris opens art gallery and crafts studio

By LEESMITH
Suburban Living Editor

There's a new business in the Belleville area which, we suspect, very few people are aware of. And the owners are hoping it will come as a happy surprise to learn that it's an art gallery and craft shop just five minutes drive from "downtown." Awaiting its official grand opening sometime in May is the Bentley Nursery, Gallery and Crafts located at 8475 Morton Taylor Road, north-east of the city.

John and Chris Bentley have operated the nursery end of the business for 15 years and are well-known for their contract landscaping and eight acres of nursery stock.

But the gallery and craft segment of their lives has only been a reality since October when, Chris says, her "dream came true." An avid amateur artist, Chris found herself constantly having to drive miles for her paints, frames and other supplies and finally decided that there probably were fellow art fanciers facing the same situation.

Not one to merely push an idea aside (in other words, she is NOT a procrastinator) she mentally began to make plans for a supply shop to tie in with the nursery. Last autumn she saw her daydream come true.

Not only did she begin receiving shipments of various art materials but she began hanging the "finished product" — original oils from Europe — in her shop which now could be labeled a "gallery" as well.

Art buffs will find just about every type of oil painting (comparable to many of the finest galleries in the vicinity) from which to choose. Landscapes, still lifes, figures, animals, seascapes, flowers — take your pick! The choice of an artist's personal technique also makes the purchase more interesting. Patrons will even find some of Chris's work hanging on the walls.

Since frames are so important for setting off a completed canvas, Chris imported a fantastic collection from Mexico and Taiwan to fit any type of decor be it modern or rustic, ornate or contemporary.

Custom framing is still another feature for local connoisseurs (and what a selection of colors and woods!) Bentley's also stocks every shade of mat board for customizing watercolors, photographs and prints. For do-it-yourselfers the shop even has mat board cutters for sale.

Other materials to be found on the newly-installed shelves and cases are oil paints, watercolors, acrylics, pastels and felt designer art markers. There's a full line of art brushes, palette knives, sketch pads, construction paper, fixatives, poster paint, textile color sets and string sculpture kits.

Decoupage fans will find a variety of prints as well as the necessary unfinished wooden plaques, ecology boxes and purses for their application. The all-important hardware for pictures, how-to art books, wrapping paper and greeting cards are also for sale.

Another interesting area is the china painting department where cups and saucers, plates, teapots, jewelry boxes, mugs, vases and steins can be purchased for painting those delicate designs.

Classes in china painting currently are being taught at the gallery by Bill Garrison of Wyandotte. The Tuesday and Thursday lessons are held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. with 10 students already into the media. Others interested in joining may call 697-6441.

If macrame happens to be your current interest, April 1 is the starting date for weekly classes to be taught by Harold Sole, a teacher at Belleville High School. The gallery presently is accepting applications for the Thursday sessions.

Bentley Gallery courses actually began with its "charter member club" (as Chris dubbed it) — a group of six persons who signed up for oil painting instructions from George Woodcock of Dearborn. From the original Wednesday night group, the lessons have expanded into another set of six painters on Monday nights.

Woodcock is an established landscape artist whose work is displayed in the gallery as well as in homes and business establishments in many states. Specializing in rural farm scenes and rustic buildings, his paintings have a restful and captivating effect.

Two more classes in oils have been scheduled for Fridays. Joyce King of Farmington, whose fine floral subjects and figures are included in the gallery collection, will instruct both in the morning and afternoon.

Portraiture with Norma Jean Curran of Southfield at the helm, will be a Friday morning class as well. Applications are now being accepted.

The Bentleys are planning their grand opening to coincide with the spring surge of nursery patrons who will be driving out for their landscape supplies. Some 14,000 items — locust trees, dogwoods, magnolias, dwarf fruit trees, shrubs, evergreens, etc. — have been arriving from California, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Ohio and the southern states for the new planting season.

A highlight of the "premiere" will be free decoupage demonstrations by Eleanor Gay of the Connoisseur Studios, Inc. of Louisville, Ky.

Newcomers will find the Bentley studio itself interesting as far as construction is concerned since the rough-hewn walls were salvaged from the old Haab barn in Freedom Township and the rafters from the old Brush Building in Detroit.

Chris admittedly had an "in" on the barn siding since she was formerly personnel manager for Haab's Restaurant in Ypsilanti. A very versatile lady, she was a hairdresser at one time and in 1970 earned her pilot's license. And although she has been a bit too busy to devote much time to her "second love" (the skyways), it is very obvious that Chris has been flying high in her own way since her dream gallery materialized.

Come in and browse

Those dreams of "someday" accomplishing the many deeds we visualize mentally don't always materialize. But in the case of Chris Bentley, her dream of an art gallery and supply shop came into being last fall when Bentley Nursery, Gallery and Crafts was established at 8475 Morton Taylor Road in Van Buren Township. With several of the gallery's original oils in the background, Chris holds one of the imported works which help comprise the collection. A few finished pieces from the china painting class — a temple jar, plate and jewel case are also displayed. Chris and her husband, John, are planning the grand opening of their studio for sometime in May. In the meantime, they invite you to come in and browse.

Maple syrup topic at Home Arts Club

"The Making of Maple Syrup, from Tree to Tummy" was the subject of Marshal Wied's talk when he addressed the Home Arts Club March 8. He was appropriately garbed in his red outdoorsman flannel shirt and boots to demonstrate the technique of tapping a 4-foot section of maple tree he had brought with him.

During his talk, he had a pan of syrup boiling and invited members to taste his finished product. It takes 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of syrup. Slides were shown to help identify maple trees in winter. The fact that all maple trees can be tapped came as a surprise since most people think only of the sugar maples as the source.

A surprise to the audience was Wied's information that many common weeds such as cat-tails, milkwed, wild asparagus, purslane and dandelions are all edible. He did advise caution in their consumption and suggested several books which can help make one more knowledgeable in the selection and preparation of weeds and mushrooms.

Better known as "Mr. Ecology" at Belleville High School where he teaches the ecology class, Wied has back-packed in the United States and Canadian Rockies, vacationed in the Arctic Circle and spent two summers at the University of Michigan Biological station in Pellston; his travels and experiences no doubt having a direct bearing on his knowledge of nature.

Charlotte Price and Joyce Phillips chose a St. Patrick's Day theme for their table setting and refreshments of lime punch and cookies.

Planning fund raiser

Belleville South Junior High School's Understanding Committee has a special activity planned in order to raise funds for the Belleville Bicentennial Park. It will be a week-long commemoration of the 1776 era and the style of dress, food and teaching will all be similar to that at the beginning of the nation. Balinda Stafford (left) and Angela Brown (right) are co-chairing the 1776 Dress Up Day and other activities which are aimed at a profit of $500 in order to purchase benches for the lakeside park.

She shares date with St. Patrick

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Patricia Kosin, who was a St. Patrick's Day baby nine years ago, celebrated her 1976 birthday with seven friends from St. Anthony's School. Following their early dismissal from classes, the group enjoyed sloppy joes, chips, pop, ice cream and cake. The remainder of the afternoon at the honoree's home on Elwell Road was spent playing games and sinking a few putts in an indoor golf game.

Sharing Pat's special day were Lynette Babik, Carolyn and Marilyn Walters, Annette Rogers, Anne Pokojski, Corrine Tunison and Florina Bryan.

FOR THE EXPECTED HEIR

Friends and relatives, 20 in all, came bearing packages wrapped in stork theme paper when they attended the shower honoring mother-to-be Annette Eastman of Livonia.

Held at the Romulus home of Jean Martin, the party included a buffet supper at 7 p.m. followed by progressive bunco. A yellow and green decorative theme was used for the table covers with a spray of daffodils, daisies, carnations and pussy willows as the focal point on the main table.

Prizes were won by Evelyn Ulster of Westland; Joyce Van Ameyde of Saline; Grace Smith of Wayne and Doretta Downey of Plymouth.

Co-hostesses for the evening were Donna Henry and Marianne Kaubicz of Wayne.

MAKE IT A 'THEATER EVENING'

For those who are fans of the travelogue and documentary type of film, the evening of March 27 should be YOUR night since three special movies in that category are being brought to Belleville for your enjoyment and information.

The Belleville Bicentennial Committee is sponsoring the program which will get underway at 7:30 p.m. at the Belleville High School auditorium. The Stamos Travel Agency of Ypsilanti is donating the films in order that the committee can cut costs and realize a larger profit.

Judy Fruit, travelogue chairman, is being assisted by Carol Schank, Betty Tontalo and Burma Wertz. Mayor Justin Emerson will be on hand to draw for the lucky door prize winners and Don Carlson will speak briefly on the progress of the Belleville Bicentennial Park.

The three films to be shown are "Philadelphia with Love", "The Statue of Liberty and New York" and "Don Ho's Hawaii." Tickets are $1.50 for adults; $1 for senior citizens and 50 cents for children 12 and under. Refreshments will be served.

Why not get your friends together and plan an evening at the theater?

Scouts salute their founding

Harrison cluster handles banquet

The six Girl Scout troops which comprise the Harrison School cluster sponsored a banquet March 12 in honor of the birthday of Girl Scouting which Juliette Lowe founded 64 years ago.

The flag ceremony was followed by the pledge and Girl Scout promise recited by Marnie Morton, Laurie Holt, Tina Wright and Kim Lewis with Cindy Shipp, Cadette Scout, lighting the official birthday candles.

The program included a candlelight ceremony by Cadette Troop No. 450; an original flag ceremony by Junior Troop No. 195; "This is Your Life" by Brownie Troop No. 291; "Being a Friend Maker" by Brownie Troop No. 174; a song by Brownie Troop No. 682 and "Wide Game" and a tribute to Juliette Lowe's birthday by Junior Troop No. 743.

Members of the six troops put their heads together and planned the meal which served some 100 people. The girls did their own marketing, cooking, serving, decorating and KP detail with expertise not usually found in girls from 6 to 13 years of age.

Troop Service Director Lynn Hackett organized the troops for the special occasion and the troop leaders and committee members express their appreciation for her patience and guidance. They also are very proud of the fine job the Harrison cluster did in commemorating Girl Scout Week.

Elwell holds potluck

Elwell troops celebrated Girl Scout Week and the 64th birthday of Girl

Scouting together when the juniors and brownies recently shared a potluck dinner with their mothers.

The program opened with a candle lighting ritual held in conjunction with Girl Scouts throughout the land who were sharing the "Flame for Freedom" gesture. Brownies from the three troops sang the "Brownie Smile Song" followed by folk dances performed by Junior Troop No. 535.

"Girl Scouts Together" by Junior Troop No. 589 concluded the entertainment. Centerpieces made by the girls' mothers and leaders were given away as door prizes along with a Brownie wristwatch for which a drawing was held.

Another recent activity for the cluster was a roller skating party on Mar. 13.

Haggerty, NJHS Scouts combine for celebration

Girl Scout Week was celebrated by more than 300 Girl Scouts, their families and guests at a potluck dinner held at North Junior High School (NJHS), recently. The girls are members of troops from Haggerty School and North Junior High.

Each troop decorated its own dining tables. Large Girl Scout emblems made by Barbara Thomas with individual troop numbers printed on them were placed at the end of each troop serving table.

Hostesses for the evening, Pam Callahan, Margaret Kubetski and Toby Watts, greeted guests and passed out programs made by Barbara Thomas, Peggy Sumner and Mary Black.

The 13 member color guard began festivities as Kristen Kucel of Troop No. 374 led the flag ceremony carrying the "Flames of Freedom" candle which denotes the National Girl Scouts of America's theme for the bicentennial year. Other members of the color guard were Shannon Messier of Troop No. 374, Michelle Shanower and Dawn Coles of Troop No. 486, Amy Delaforce and Cheryl Lubke of Troop No. 736, and Sherry Charkiewicz and Karen Gonczy of Troop No. 744. Members of Cadette Troop No. 745 were Eileen Collins and Carol Hazen.

After grace was led by Brownies Sharon Feltman, Deborah Schmidt, Jennifer Collins and Rhonda Garland, dinner was served by members of three junior troops: Kathleen Zager, Kimberly Black and Christi Wisniewski of Troop No. 616; Debbie Forsyth, Stephanie Baumgardner and Sandy Mattson of Troop No. 668, and Glenna Gillingham, Karen Simmons and Linda Wenson of Troop No. 734.

Sponsorship certificates were presented to Mrs. Janet Oliver, leader of Troop No. 616, on behalf of the ECW of Trinity Episcopal Church and to Mrs. Penny Shanower who was the representative from the Haggerty PTO which sponsors Troop No. 668.

The evening entertainment included the Brownies serenading everyone with "Hello Friend," "Coconuts and Grapes" and "It's a Small World." Other Brownies performed the Mexican Hat Dance.

Juniors followed with members doing an Israeli square dance and individual skits about camping. Last on the program were members of Cadette Troop No. 745 doing a skit entitled "The Spirit of 745."

Leaders introduced during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Feltman, Mrs. Donna Coles, Mrs. Sue Pieknik, Mrs. Faye Traskos, Mrs. Elaine Giza, Mrs. Peggy Sumner and Mrs. Belinda Garland.

Also introduced were Mrs. Janet Oliver, Mrs. Margaret Bergeson, Mrs. Dulce Jacobson, Mrs. Diane Gonczy, Mrs. Barbara Gillingham, Mrs. Joanne Ryan, Mrs. Gerry Grieve and Mrs. Mary Watts.

As people said their good-byes and gathered their things, "sanitary engineers" from all eight troops worked to leave things in order. Workers were Dawn Thomas, Becky McArthur, Carrie Giza, Denise Gray, Michele Domen, Terri McDaniel, Cathy Green and Natalie Cavin.

In addition to the girls and their parents, who made the evening such a success, there are many additional people to thank. Things went well also because Mrs. Ann Feltman and Mrs. Dulce Jacobson took care of ordering the needed supplies and because Mr. Charkiewicz took the time to make several flag stands. The custodial staff of North Junior High and the many parents who helped with last minute details were very much appreciated.

MUSICAL NOTES

by Doug Brown

If you have a serious musician in your family, no matter what the instrument, you may have need of some sort of cataloging system for sheet music. Sheet music is valuable, and should be cared for in the same way as you would any valuable papers you want to keep. A music file is an indispensable aid for any musician. They come in all sizes, and can be as simple as a small file cabinet. Use folders for music that might otherwise get lost or crammed into out-of-the-way corners. It is a lot easier to know what the musician needs if he can keep track of what he has.

Sign up today for lessons on your favorite instrument at DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus. Full lessons by professional music teachers on all instruments. We rent all types of band instruments. Our repair department works on all instruments. Phone 941-8484.

Some sort of carrying case or brief case for transporting music is as essential as a case for one's instrument.

Romulus Symphonic Band advances to state contest

The Romulus High School Symphonic Band will be the lone school district competitor in state band competition sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

The Romulus contingent returned from two weeks of state competition as one of the best in the Wayne-Oakland-Monroe County area of Michigan with a "first division" rating and a chance to compete in state play-offs slated for May 8 in Flint.

"The kids from throughout the school system played nicely," said Richard Kruse, Music Department head for the Romulus School District. "The parents, teachers and students in the district have much to be proud of."

Last weekend ended two weekends of competition, which saw the district's two junior high school bands finish with respectable ratings when compared with junior high bands from throughout the 3-county area.

Both the Romulus South Junior High School Concert Band and the Romulus South Junior High School Symphonic Band finished with second-division ratings.

Despite the better than average finish, the two bands will not be eligible to compete in later state competition.

The Romulus Senior High contingent received its rating in Grosse Pointe during the March 6-8 weekend.

Ratings included two first-division finishes and a second-division finish to give the school an overall first-division rating on its performance of pre-selected concert works.

The students then were given a second-division rating on their performance of an unpracticed work given them at the competition.

Although the two junior high school bands were given respectable marks, the symphonic band's final standing at the district level was a step down from its performance of last year. The band went on to state competition and won an overall first-division rating against the best in the state.

The Symphonic Band's ratings included three first-division ratings on pre-selected works played at the competition in Romulus Senior High School and a third-division rating on the unpracticed work presented to the band members at the competition. The cumulative total was a second-division rating.

The concert band, competing in Whiteford, received two second division ratings from a three-judge panel on pre-selected works and a third division rating from the same panel for a cumulative second-division rating. The students then received a third-division rating on their unpracticed number at the competition for a cumulative second-division finish.

Out of the Romulus competition came five first-division performances including those by the Slauson, Tappan and Scarlet middle schools from Ann Arbor and by Plymouth West Middle School and the Temperance-Bedford Middle School.

The Belleville North Junior High School Band placed with a third-division finish, with two third-division and a second-division ratings on pre-selected works and a third-division rating on the unpracticed work for a final third-division rating at the Romulus competition.

Besides his pride in the way the district's three bands performed at the district level, Kruse said he was thankful for the effort volunteers put into hosting the 17-school division final held at Romulus High School.

"We have much to be proud of in Romulus," Kruse said. "It's difficult to host the competition for the band and orchestra association, but the workers at Romulus came through."

"The students and instructors from schools who competed in the event this weekend were very impressed with Romulus."

"We intend to bid for another contest next year."

Parade's clowns attend workshop

Organizers of the Wayne County Bicentennial Parade have issued a call for all clowns, whether professional or amateur, to gather for a Clown Workshop on April 5 at the City-County Building in Detroit.

The workshop, which is being put together by Ted Schave, also known as Wiffle the Clown, will include a makeup demonstration and professional tips on how to clown around, help in developing 1-minute clown dances and instruction in how to sew a costume, create a funny hat and clown behavior.

The event will be held in the 13th floor auditorium of the building and will run from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Clowns participating in the parade will perform along a 9-mile parade route. For further information call 224-5025.

How do you tell a child about death?

"Why did Grandpa die?"
Do you explain it away with a fairy tale? Do you tell him that God called him away? Or do you answer truthfully, but simply, so that the child relates his Grandpa's death to, perhaps, flowers which live, grow, wither and ultimately die?
If the child is offered a fairy tale, he'll accept it - for now. But, like all fairy tales, they have a way of remaining make believe for but a short while. And then how do you face the child? Can you keep his trust after that? Perhaps. Perhaps not.
If you tell the child that God has called Grandpa away, you may be sincere, but philosophy and theology are not usually within a youngster's understanding. And what is there to dispel the notion that "God may again call" - taking away his mother, his father? Relate to Flowers
It might be better to explain how flowers grow and bloom, then wither and die. This concept is understandable to the child because it's a fact he can grasp. One he has witnessed.
"Flowers," you may explain, "don't live a long time. But we like them and remember them. Grandpa lived a long time. Remember the good times you had with Grandpa. But like the flowers, he, too, died. We loved him - and we'll remember him with love, won't we?"
You can expect many questions. Answer them simply. The young child needs to understand that what has happened is a natural course of events, like the seasons and the sun's rising and setting, that he is a part of the family, sharing and understanding...that his own sadness is shared and understood.

Spring: Fun from syrup fests to ice shows

Easter, trout season and maple sugaring, like the courageous crocus, are the first sure signs that Michigan is getting set to "spring free" of winter, according to the Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Some of the "go-to" affairs listed for the last unpredictable days of March include: a Bicentennial Ice Travaganza in Wyandotte tomorrow through Sunday, and the Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show now through Sunday at Cobo Hall in Detroit.

April concentrates on activities and events inspired by the "green-up" season. One of the tastiest and most popular offerings of the season is maple sugaring time, celebrated annually by Maple Syrup festivals. — April 4 at the Chippewa Nature Center in Midland; at Vermontville, April 23-25, and at Shepherd, April 24-25.

Looking ahead to what's new for warmer weather pursuits and projects, the April through September Michigan Calendar of Travel Events lists the Sport and Recreation Show at Upper Peninsula State Fairgrounds in Escanaba, April 24; the Kiwanis Boat Show at the Yack Arena in Wyandotte,

Mercy College set for 'Sing' musical

A gift of laughter will be offered by the Mercy College of Detroit speech and drama department with the spring musical, "Of Thee I Sing."

The first American musical to receive a Pulitzer Prize, the light-and Morrie Ryskind was written in campus at West Outer Drive and 1931.

George and Ira Gershwin's music includes "Who Cares?" "Love Is Sweeping the Country," "Wintergreen for President," and the paeon title song.

"This isn't nostalgia," emphasized Ralph Maffongelli, director and assistant professor of drama at Mercy. "The giddy spoofing and intelligent lunacy applies to our present political year. Although this vehicle wasn't specifically chosen as a Bicentennial offering, it certainly makes one realize that as mad as the whole political history of the country might be, they still say it is the best system extant."

The musical will be presented Thursday through Sunday at 8 p.m. in McAuley Auditorium on the Mercy campus at West Outer Drive and Southfield.

Dinner will be available before the Friday and Saturday night performances in the Manistee Room of the Student Center.

Tickets may be reserved by calling 531-7820, ext. 493 and will be available at the box office the nights of performances.

'Godspell' opens tour of Music Hall

A major production of "Godspell" will be presented at Music Hall for a 3-week Easter season engagement, beginning this week, according to David DiChiera, artistic director.

The show, a musical adaptation of the Gospel according to St. Matthew, was one of the longest running off-Broadway successes in New York where it won critical acclaim for the innocence of its entertainment at a time, 1971, when sex and sensationalism appeared to dominate the musical theater scene.

The show disproved that trend with a 5-year New York run, putting it into a class with "The Three Penny Opera", "The Fantastiks" and "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown."

"This production of 'Godspell' is the best I've ever seen", DiChiera said of the 10-member cast who will appear at Music Hall during the pre-Easter season.

The show's story is the re-enactment in song and dance of the parables and teachings of Jesus. The youthful cast uses pantomime and slapstick to put across the ageless story in a new way.

"The show is a musical-spiritual experience", DiChiera pointed out. "It has played to audiences all over the United States and Europe. It never seems to lose its popularity, drawing each new generation of young theatergoers."

"Godspell" was conceived and directed by John-Michael Tebelak, with music and new lyrics by Stephen Schwartz.

Tickets may be purchased by calling 963-7680. Performance times are 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday matinees 7:30 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 p.m. weekdays.

Concert aids camp

A benefit concert for the Interlochen Center for the Arts will be held May 4 at Ford Auditorium in honor of W. Calvin Patterson, long active in Detroit and Michigan arts organizations.

The 8:30 p.m. concert will feature the 100-member Interlochen Arts Academy orchestra. Tickets for the performance are available at the Ford Auditorium box office.

Proceeds from the event will be used to provide scholarships at the National Music Camp and the Interlochen Arts Academy for talented youth who are interested in specialized training in the performing and the visual arts.

For eight weeks each summer, more than 1,500 young people ranging in age from 8 years through the university level attend the National Music Camp. A third of them are from Michigan and the rest represent 45 other states and 22 foreign countries.

The academy, which operates during the regular school year, serves more than 325 students, more than half of whom receive scholarship aid.

The concert will be the finale to what Detroit Mayor Coleman Young will proclaim as "Cal Patterson Day."

Patterson, retired senior vice-president for Michigan Bell, will be honored for his civic involvement and dedication to the arts at a patrons dinner and reception prior to the concert.

A member of the Interlochen Board of Trustees since 1968, Patterson has served as chairman of the Michigan Council for the Arts, chairman of the board of Cranbrook School and on the boards of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the Detroit Grand Opera Association.

Entertainment

April 8-11; the Home Builders of Flint Trade Show at the Genesee Valley Center near Flint, April 22-25; and the Home and Sport Show at the fairgrounds, Hastings, April 30-May 2. No prologue to spring would be complete without blossoms, and the Genesee Valley Center near Flint will be "blooming out all over" during the Spring Flower Display on April 16-17.

For the younger generation in particular, and every generation in general, the Easter Baby Animal Display at the Nature Center in Kalamazoo, April 13-20, is perhaps one of Michigan's most delightful springtime events. Lambs, piglets, calves and bunnies, of course, plus a variety of other baby animals are displayed in special areas that allow youngsters — and adults — to pet them.

No matter what the weather, when trout season opens, every red-blooded fisherman will tell you that spring has arrived. Heralding the event in Michigan is the annual National Trout Festival at Kalkaska, April 23-25.

Wyandotte opens its ethnic festival season April 30-May 2, with the flavors, customs and music of Italy in Yack Arena.

And if you're looking for some ideas to whet your creative appetite, try the Hobby, Arts and Crafts Show at the East Eight Mile Armory in Detroit, April 1-4, or the Upper Peninsula Crafts - Workshop at Lake Superior State College at Sault Ste. Marie, April 24-27. On the antique front, there's the Michigan Antique Show and Sale at Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor, April 24 and an Antiques Market in Ann Arbor on April 11. For the "rock hounds" and lapidary enthusiasts, there's the Gem and Mineral Show, April 16-18, in the National Guard Armory in Jackson.

The cultural side of the month has a long list of entertaining events on stage, on film and in the stars. The program includes: "The Amorous Flea," through April 4, "Who's Happy Now," April 8-25, and "Hot L Baltimore," April 29-May 16 on stage at the Center for the Arts in Lansing; "The Rites of Spring," a sky show explaining seasonal changes and concluding with the retelling of the story of Easter at Longway Planetarium in Flint, through April 17; Bizet's opera "Carmen" will be presented by the Lydia Mendelssohn Theatre in Ann Arbor, April 14; and "Sutter's Gold" will be the Famous Early Movie on the screen on the Henry Ford Museum Theatre, in Dearborn, April 4.

Van Cliburn will be in concert April 8 in the Michigan State University Auditorium in East Lansing; Stan Kenton and His Orchestra will present a musical evening April 9 at Interlochen, and April 30, famed British mime artist Geoffrey Buckley will present a unique performance at Interlochen.

There's much to see and do and enjoy during spring in Michigan. For a complete listing of April through September events, write for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, Lansing 48913.

Center used for surveys of lakes

Rep. Ford asks for delay in closing

The Congressman from the 15th District in Michigan is asking the federal government to delay closing the Lake Survey Center in Detroit.

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has joined with Congressman James G. O'Hara (D-Utica), candidate for U.S. Senator Philip Hart's soon-to-be vacated Senate seat, in a petition against closing the center, pending the results of an investigation into the possible savings of the action by the Comptroller General of the United States.

The investigation had been requested earlier by Ford, O'Hara and Congressman Philip E. Ruppe (R-Houghton), who contended that the closing would not actually result in the announced $425,000 savings yearly given as the reason for the action.

In a letter to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) administrator Dr. Robert M. White, Ford and O'Hara said it would be "ill advised for the NOAA to proceed further with the closing of the Detroit operation" while the General Accounting Office is conducting its investigation.

They added: "If the General Accounting Office's investigation indicates that shutting down the Lake Survey Center would not achieve the closing which the office of management and budget directed you to make, there would be no good reason for carrying out your original plans."

The two added that implementing the closing before the actual savings of the action are determined could make it difficult to restart the Detroit operation.

The congressmen indicated that their concern in keeping the center open, at least until savings can be determined, is to prevent more Michigan residents from losing jobs.

Both indicate that some of the workers at the Detroit-based operation have been transferred to similar operations in Rockville, Md., and Norfolk, Va., but indicated that many workers will have to be laid-off rather than transferred.

They indicated their fear also expands to the entire region's economy, since closing the center may decrease service to Great Lakes shipping and boating interests which have a vital role not only in the Detroit-area economy but also in all states bordering the Great Lakes system.

Siphoning of gas can be hazardous

Siphoning gasoline from a tank or vehicle may save you the extra time it takes to go the gas station — permanently.

"It is an extremely hazardous practice that many people do not understand. Too often a person is found dead beside his automobile with the siphon still spraying gasoline on the ground," said Howard J. Doss, safety specialist at Michigan State University.

Medical studies show that gasoline and other petroleum distillates, including kerosene, and lighter fluid, can cause serious consequences when inhaled, or ingested.

A great danger is potential harm to lungs. When gasoline is taken into the mouth, some of the vapors enter the lungs where it causes immediate irritation and tissue damage. The destruction of this issue, in turn, causes the lungs to fill with fluid, causing pneumonia.

"Gasoline also enters the bloodstream and can slow breathing, and death may result in a matter of minutes," Doss said.

Gasoline and other petroleum distillates should be kept in their original containers, out of reach of children, Doss suggested, adding three other precautions:

- Never attempt to siphon gasoline, or any other petroleum distillates, by mouth.
- If you must siphon, buy a mechanical siphon at the hardware store. The few dollars spent could save your life.
- Be extremely careful when handling gasoline in cold weather. Just spilling gasoline on your skin can cause frostbite or burns, since the gasoline evaporates rapidly, causing the skin temperature to super cool.

Minor politicals may have to prove support

Minor political parties seeking a place on the forthcoming statewide general election ballot would be required to demonstrate a minimal level of popular statewide voter support, under a proposal initiated by State Sen. Patrick McCollough (D-Deerborn), chairman of the Senate Committee on Municipalities and elections.

The proposed legislation is detailed in Substitute Senate Bill 1323. And this week Sen. McCollough urged speedy approval by Michigan lawmakers in order to avert a catastrophe in Michigan's 1976 general election.

"I have proposed this legislation to address the loss of the franchise by hundreds of thousands of qualified Michigan citizens who will face the discouraging near certainty of long lines in November," McCollough said. "These lines will be occasioned by the loss of voting machines and the necessary use of the least efficient, more inaccurate and time-consuming method - the paper ballot."

McCollough added that his bill addresses the causative problem, "the current proliferation of minor political parties."

Under the present state law, according to McCollough, political parties may gain a place on the ballot, either by filing petitions with the Secretary of State or by virtue of their vote in the preceding general election.

"My proposal combines and extends existing procedures and philosophy to all new parties," he said. "It couples petitions with votes cast in the preceding election - the preceding election being the August primary."

There now is a 97 percent certainty of loss of all voting machines and the consequent necessity of paper ballots in the general election this November according to McCollough.

The Secretary of State reports that six parties already have qualified for a spot on the November ballot and that two more parties have, or are about to submit their petitions for review, an additional six parties currently are circulating petitions for a total potential of 14 parties in the November ballot. Present voting machines can accommodate only 9 party columns.

Under McCollough's proposal, voters in the statewide primary elections held this August would either nominate candidates for parties appearing on the ballot, or designate the political party of their choice from a list of minor parties who otherwise qualify and submit their party logo for appearance on the ballot.

Then parties would appear on the general election ballot only if, in the primary, they receive a vote total amounting to at least .3 of one percent of the total number of votes appearing at the polls or approximately 4,000 votes cast statewide on 1974 figures.

"The need for this legislation is obvious," McCollough said. "Unless something is done, the present phenomena of proliferating minor parties can, by their appearance on the ballot without a showing of minimal support, require paper ballots in November at tremendous additional expense and at the risk of delaying the final general election vote count by days."

In the proposed legislation "we're simply saying that in order to appear on the general election ballot, a party must demonstrate a minimal level of popular statewide support in the primary. "That's a small requirement and, in fact, only an extension of existing procedures," McCollough added.

Busy hours

These members of the Western Wayne County YWCA "Y-Women's Club" spend a few hours each week visiting and learning new skills at the Romulus Community Center in the Meadows Subdivision. Studying crafts are Ellen Kadamus (from left), Phyllis Shotts, Lois Heffner, Karleen Young and Judy Justice. Besides meeting in the community center, 28327 Leroy St., Romulus, the new club also holds meetings at the Wellesley Townhouse Apartment Complex, 35661 Smith Road. Information on the club, which meets from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Wellesley location and from 1 to 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Meadows location is available by calling Mary Willoughby, area director, at 561-4110. — ANP photo.

Court services may be set up for out-county

Circuit Court services are likely to be established at several locations in outer Wayne County later this year, according to County Commissioner Edgar L. Harris.

Harris reported that fact at an informational meeting which he held for Romulus-area residents at a recent evening in the Romulus City Council chambers.

"The county soon will be applying for a federal grant from the Michigan Office of Criminal Justice Programs (OCJP) to start out-county court operations on a test basis. The plan is to provide most pre-trial services in criminal cases," Harris said.

Prospects are excellent that the OCJP will approve the application for $100,000 in federal Law Enforcement Assistant Act (LEAA) funds, he added.

"What is likely to happen is that the out-county area will be divided into four areas, each with its own Circuit Court branch located in existing district courtrooms," Harris said. "Romulus, Taylor, Westland and the downriver corridor are among the possible locations that have been discussed."

Harris said Presiding Circuit Court Judge James N. Canham sees the grant as an opportunity to determine the feasibility of out-county Circuit Court services at little cost to the county taxpayers. The grant requires a county match of 5 percent — $5,000.

Arraignments in criminal cases already are being handled by district judges in the out-county area.

The new program would expand out-county activities to include pre-trial conferences of prosecutors, police and witnesses, a function now requiring police and witnesses to go downtown to the Prosecutor's office, he said.

In addition, Harris reported, pleas would be taken out county, either by a circuit judge dispatched to an out-county location, or by a district judge designated by the Michigan Supreme Court.

Harris also answered audience questions regarding plans to convert a vacant psychiatric building into a temporary jail facility at Wayne County General Hospital in Westland.

"I am pretty sure that before we spend any money there we will have an effort to block the project in the courts," Harris responded. He speculated that the City of Westland, which already has sued for the right to review the plan, would seek a court injunction to block the project.

"But until we get something to the contrary, we will have to proceed with the project because we are under court orders to do so," he added.

Lodge membership grows

Nine new members have enrolled in the Belleville Moose Lodge. Joining the fraternity were Warren Arwood, Randall Combs, Carmon Jones, Fred Koeslin, Eugene Lsk, Bernard Polzin, Daryl Romer, George Shough and John Zyla.

Shough acted as class representative.

The Moose ritual team of Charles Morton, Clyde Bowe, Harry Wilsey and Buford Fowler welcomed the new members.

The enrollment was capped with a dinner prepared by the women of the Moose and a dance.

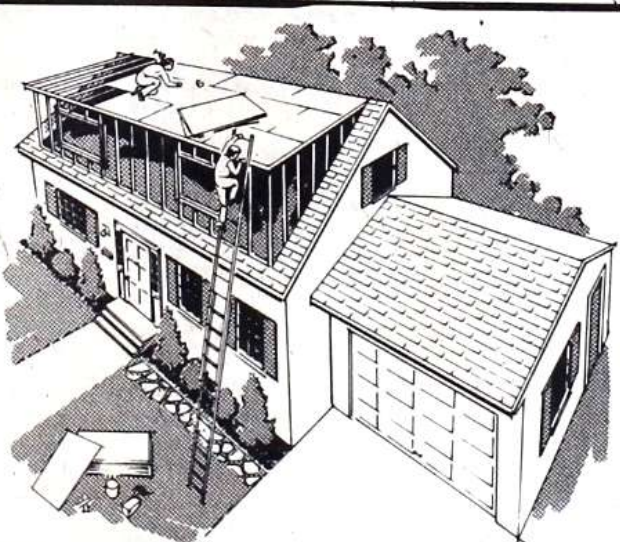

The group will hold a dance at the Moose Hall Saturday, featuring the music of the Suburbanites, and has scheduled a dance March 27 at the Hall, with Bill Mathers Band providing the music.

The March 27 dance will be preceded by a corned beef dinner sponsored by the ritual team with proceeds helping to defray expenses for sending the team to national ritual competition.

Attorney general says

Consumers have rights in rate increases

In spite of continuing requests by utility companies for electric, gas and telephone rate increases, it is apparent that most rate payers are not aware of their rights in regard to these requests, one state official believes.

According to Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, a utility requests an increase from the Public Service Commission (PSC), which regulates that rates of all utilities in the state, excluding municipally-owned units.

The rate hike process involves "lengthy hearings with witnesses from the utility company, PSC and intervenors, testifying in highly technical areas, such as utility accounting and rate of return," Kelley said.

The attorney general several times has intervened in such processes several times on behalf of the public where their "interest appears most acute."

"Citizens, who are customers of the utility, also have a right to enter the proceedings and present their views to the PSC on the appropriateness of the rate requested increase," Kelley added. "This can be done either at public hearings, usually held in various parts of the state, or through intervention at the subsequent hearings held in Lansing."

According to Kelley, notification of both of those proceedings are provided in advance either directly with the utility bill or by publication in newspapers.

"The difficulty for most customers is that involvement requires substantial time and money," Kelley added. He went on to say that any citizen can attend a public hearing and state his or her views, letting the PSC know how the ratepayer reacts to the company's request and bringing out problems that might be overlooked.

However, it differs from the formal intervenor, who needs the services of an attorney and one or more expert witnesses, a costly process.

According to Kelley, average citizens can overcome the financial handicap of becoming a formal intervenor by organizing a group to share the cost of such a move, or by asking their local government to intervene on their behalf.

"Not only may utility customers intervene in rate increases proceedings, but they also may initiate their own rate proceeding by filing a complaint with the PSC," Kelley said. "This complaint may call into question the revenues and all of the rates of the utility company, and thus have the same scope as a general rate case initiated by the company."

"Or it may be limited to examining the reasonableness of a few, or even a single rate," he added.

Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney, the attorney general advised.

Students net diplomas

Three residents of the Belleville - Romulus community have been named recipients of degrees at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

The trio received their sheep skins during commencement ceremonies, held on March 13, in the college's auditorium.

Two Belleville residents received their diplomas. They were John Evans II of Carmell Street, a bachelor of arts degree in personnel administration with high honors; and Lenore White of North Shore Drive, a bachelor of science degree in medical technology.

The lone New Boston graduate was Lillian Chont of Waltz Road, a bachelor of science degree in horticulture with honors.

Russell E. Train, administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, delivered the commencement address.

Liberace at benefit

Internationally known entertainer and pianist Liberace recently performed at a benefit for the Variety Club of Detroit at the grand opening celebration of the Northfield Hilton Inn, located in Troy. With Liberace are Mr. and Mrs. Doug Brown of the Doug Brown Music at 9219 Wayne Road, Romulus, who supply the Baldwin piano for Liberace's music presentation. Liberace is a Baldwin artist.

Common Council sets hearing on water rate

A proposed "controversial" 39-percent increase in water service rates by Detroit Metro Water Department is expected to be discussed March 26 by the Detroit Common Council.

The water rate boost, which is scheduled to become effective on April 1, if the Detroit Common Council approves, was approved last December by the Detroit Board of Water Commissioners.

The vote to increase water rates, which in the minds of many suburban municipal leaders is "unnecessary" was 4-3, with the three suburban members of the Board of Water Commissioners opposing the rate hike.

The Detroit Common Council, which has the final say on any proposed water rate boost, and members of the Board of Water Commissioners, are expected to set a date for a public hearing on the proposed increase. The Detroit Water Department supplies water to 94 suburban communities.

A 12-member steering committee composed of municipal leaders from suburban communities last week hired an attorney to advise the suburbs on methods of fighting the rate boost.

Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara, chairman of the steering committee, said the committee's primary aim is to present "our position, objections and views" on the rate increase at the March 26 Common Council session and also at the public hearing.

Taste Barrier Broken.

Struggle to get taste into low tar smoking ends suddenly with new 'Enriched Flavor' discovery for 9 mg. tar MERIT.

For years, dependency on tar for taste has created a taste "barrier" for low tar cigarettes.

A limit on how good a low tar smoke could taste.

Now that barrier has been broken.

Broken for good by a remarkable cigarette called MERIT.

MERIT packs 'Enriched Flavor.' A radical new taste discovery so effective at fortifying tobacco with extra flavor that MERIT actually delivers as much—or more—taste than cigarettes having higher tar.

Up to 60% higher tar.

Yet MERIT has only 9 mg. tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today. Lower, in fact, than 98% of all cigarettes sold.

Thousands of smokers were tested. The results were conclusive.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Smokers Report MERIT Delivers More Taste

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg.

to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, all tested at home.*

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now smoke the cigarette.

All-Area: Toughest team in state?

Glenn-Wayne wrestlers dominate selections

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Could an All-Area wrestling team capture the Class A state championship?

There is little doubt in area coaches' minds that the 1976 Associated Newspapers All-Area lineup would be a serious contender for the coveted No. 1 state berth.

The team, led by Westland John Glenn's inaugural state champ, 112-pounder Agron Vasha, includes such stalwarts as Romulus' second place state finisher Lamar Sandusky (105) and a host of blue chippers like Mike Kucsera (Franklin), Greg Johnson (Belleville), Carl Schultz (Plymouth Salem), Tim Clark (Wayne Memorial), Doug Cunningham (Wayne Memorial), Mark Coulston (John Glenn), Kevin Rize (Wayne Memorial), Randy Slocum (Belleville) and Ed Abbott (Romulus).

The elite team is dominated by wrestlers from Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial who placed 17 grapplers on the first and second strings.

Most of the 27 named to the two teams won their respective league titles and all qualified out of the districts to the state regionals.

Vasha amassed a phenomenal record as he won 42 of his 43 bouts this season and wound up with a career total of 119-16-0. Along with capturing the state title, the impressive 112-pounder also won a string of invitational titles including the Western Wayne, Flint Beecher, Plymouth Salem and Detroit Catholic Central.

Vasha won the league, district, regional titles as well. He became the school's first state champ in any sport and could be the first athlete in the school's history to ever receive a wrestling scholarship.

"A lot of Big 10 and Big 8 schools have looked at him," said Bob Lusk, Glenn's head coach. "There isn't anything definite as yet, but Agron has all the credentials to make it on the college wrestling scene."

Sandusky hopes to follow in former Romulus state champ Brad Smith's footsteps and attend the University of Toledo. He came within one victory of winning the state title at 105-pounds, winding up with a 113-27-2 career total for four years.

"Lamar is a superb young man athletically as well as academically," said Romulus Coach Avern Logan.

Coaches had a rough time selecting the All-Area's 98-pound candidate for two good reasons: Kucsera and Johnson who are among the finest wrestlers in the state. Coaches therefore voted for an unprecedented "tie." Both were selected as first stringers. Johnson is a two-time Suburban 8 Conference champ who sported a 33-3 over-all record. He finished fifth in the state.

"Greg is a clever wrestler who needs to add some weight in order to make it in college," said Gerry Malecek, Belleville High coach.

Kucsera compiled a 26-7 won-lost record en route to a fourth place finish in the state. He placed third at the regionals and won the Northwest Suburban, Garden City West and Livonia Quad Invitational titles.

Schultz is the first Salem representative ever on an All-Area wrestling team. The rugged 119-pound senior has set all sorts of Rock records in finishing seventh in the state for his weight class. His 31 victories constitutes a record for most Salem victories by a wrestler for one season.

14 honored on All-Area 2nd team

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

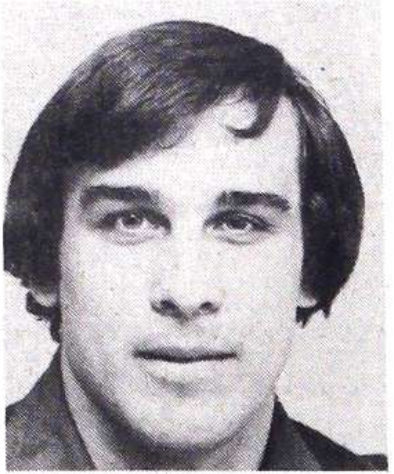

Sophomores usually don't trample in places where seniors and juniors have exclusive rights.

MARK GRABOWSKI

But Corry Bachus is an unusual athlete.

The 16-year-old Wayne Memorial soph who qualified for state competition this year has broken the All-Area barrier and earned a berth on the second team as a 132-pounder.

Others who were selected for All-Area recognition are: Jerry Hensley (John Glenn), Kevin Tracy (Wayne Memorial), Jim O'Shea (Franklin), Randy Pittman (Wayne Memorial), Nick Paciocco (John Glenn), Dan Odgen (Franklin), Bill Ficyk (John Glenn), Ricky Morrison (Romulus), Tom Taylor (Churchill), Jim Quinn (Wayne Memorial), Jim Meyer (John Glenn), Mark Grabowski (John Glenn) and Chuck Squires (John Glenn).

Bachus follows in the footsteps of his brothers who also made All-Area as members of Wayne High's team. Corry posted a 16-7-0 record in his sophomore year. He was one of eight Wayne wrestlers to qualify out of district to regional competition.

Corry also captured a Great Lakes 8 Conference title at his weight class. The second team team doesn't have a 98-pounder because the two top candidates were awarded first team recognition. Ties also existed in both the 105-pound and 112-pound classes as coaches felt that both Hensley and Tracy earned consideration at 105, while O'Shea and Pittman were of equal ability at 112.

Hensley, one of seven juniors on this year's second team, piled up a 15-3-1 record in helping the Rockets win their ninth Northwest Suburban Conference title in 10 years. Ill in the stretch, Jerry didn't get a chance to compete for state honors.

Tracy had an impressive 22-10 overall record and he'll also be back a year from now to defend Wayne Memorial's wrestling prestige. The 17-year-old, 5-7 junior sustained a jaw injury which kept him off the mats in the finale, but should be awesome when 1976-77 season rolls around.

O'Shea captured the Northwest Suburban title at 112 and went on to place fourth at the district which gave him a shot at regional honors where his season came to an end.

A senior who completed his mat career with a 20-5 record, Jim won the title at his weight class in the city meet (Livonia) and placed sixth at the Schoolcraft Invitational.

Pittman will carry on the family wrestling tradition next year at Wayne. He had an excellent junior season, winning 36 of his 47 matches and also claiming a league title.

As a junior, Glenn's 119-pounder, Paciocco has made great strides in establishing himself as an outstanding wrestler. Nick won 25 while losing six matches this season. He also picked up gold medals at the Western Wayne and Flint Beecher while finishing second at the Detroit Catholic Central and league meets. He was a state qualifier.

Ogden came through for Coach Tom Tucker's Patriots in excellent fashion. He brings to the All-Area team a 27-4 won-lost record and also was the top wrestler at 126 in the Northwest Suburban Conference. He won the city (Livonia) title at his weight class and finished first at the Garden City West Invitational. Dan survived district but not regional competition.

Ficyk brought the curtains down to a 3-year wrestling career at John Glenn with a 31-7 record. He helped the Rockets win the Northwest Suburban title and place ninth in the final Class A standings.

Romulus' lone representative to the second team, Morrison, will be back next year and all indications are that the 138-pounder will be tough. Rick had an 18-8 won-lost junior season and he qualified for the state meet by placing third at the Bedford regional.

Taylor, one of two regional qualifiers off of Tom Morowa's team at Livonia Churchill, missed the state meet because of illness. However, the 17-year-old junior had an excellent year as he won the league title, placed fourth in the Western Wayne championship and survived the districts.

Meyer is another one of Glenn's promising juniors who will form the nucleus of next year's squad. The 17-year-old wrestler picked up 14 victories in his 20 outings to the mats.

Grabowski, a standout on the gridiron, carried the image of excellence on to the mats as he was instrumental in the Rockets' outstanding season. Mark won 30 of 40 matches this year and had a two-year total of 50-20.

He placed first at both the Northwest Suburban and Plymouth Salem meets at 185 and earned a second place medal at the Western Wayne Invitational. Mark was third at the Flint Beecher and Schoolcraft Invitationals.

Squires will be attending Wayne State University in the fall, joining a flock of all All-Area gridders and wrestlers. He capped three years of wrestling with a 32-5 record and placed second at the WW meet and third at the Schoolcraft and Catholic Central meets.

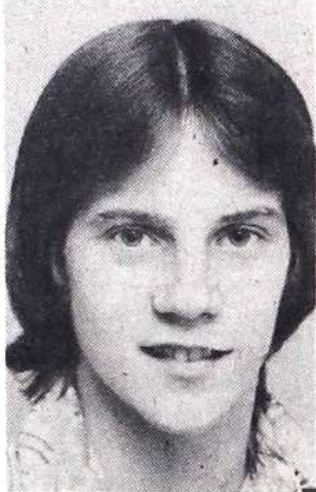

Squires survived district competition but failed to make it out of the regionals. He was voted Glenn's Most Improved Wrestler and he finished his prep mat career with a 56-20 mark. Chuck was also the captain of the Rocket football team.

This spring,
do something about next winter's heating costs.

Insulate!

More than 100,000 Michigan Consolidated Gas Company heating customers have taken advantage of our low-cost ceiling insulation program in the past two years.

Originated under the direction of the Michigan Public Service Commission, we are presenting the program again this spring.

Why insulate? Because it helps hold down home heating costs. With the cost of gas continuing to rise, installing ceiling insulation has never made more sense than it does right now. Many Michigan Consolidated customers have already reduced their gas consumption for home heating by as much as 17%. And you can save just as much by installing six inches of ceiling insulation in your home this spring.

How much does it cost? Many homeowners can install insulation themselves for about $125. That's a smart investment when the money you save on heating can repay the insulation cost in just a few years. We have a free handbook that shows you just how to do the job, whether you'll be insulating for the first time or adding to insulation that's been there for many years. You can get a copy at any Michigan Consolidated Gas Company Business Office, most building supply dealers, or write or call us.

If you'd rather not do the job yourself, one of our participating subcontractors can. Total cost is about $250 for homes with less than 1000 sq. ft. of ceiling area. You can pay cash. You can pay 20% down and pay the balance without interest over your next three gas bills. Or you can make extended payments at the interest rate of 1% per month on the unpaid balance (ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE OF 12%).

So why not insulate this spring? You'll make next winter's heating costs less than they might be without it. And if you have air conditioning, you'll save on this summer's cooling costs, too.

Glenn's Bob Lusk named wrestling Coach of Year

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Westland John Glenn is a formidable wrestling power in the North-west Suburban Conference.

Glenn also is a respected foe on the mats in Class A state competition.

And the man who has forged the Westlanders into a cohesive team and state power is Bob Lusk, who has been the Rocket coach since the Westland high school opened 12 years ago.

Lusk's wrestlers captured the conference championship - their ninth title in 10 years, the Flint Beecher and Plymouth Salem Invitational. They finished second by a half-point to reigning Class A state champ, Temperance Bedford, at the prestigious Detroit Catholic Central Invitational and, without their complete lineup, wound up fourth at the Schoolcraft Invitational.

Glenn ended a 13-1 won-lost dual meet season, (second only to its 12-0-1 record) by finishing ninth in the state.

BOB LUSK
Coach of the Year

It was the 12-year-old school's best finish ever in state wrestling competition.

The Westlanders also produced their first state champ in Agron Vasha who won the coveted title at 115.

For his achievements, The Associated Newspapers are proud to name Bob Lusk as their Wrestling Coach of the Year.

Lusk, 43, is a graduate of the College of William and Mary (Williamsburg, Virginia) where he earned a bachelor's and masters in education. Lusk also has a Director's Degree from Indiana University.

"I was pleased with the over-all performance of our team," Lusk said. "However, I felt illness and injuries kept us from reaching our full potential."

Lusk's two sons - Robert Jr., an 11th grader at Wayne Memorial, and David, 15, a student at Adams Junior High - are excellent athletes. Robert has earned letters in wrestling and football while David competes in track, wrestling and football.

Lusk and his wife, Peggy, also have a daughter, Linda, who is a seventh grader at Adams Junior High. The Lusks make their home in Westland.

Though they will lose six wrestlers off of this year's team, the Westland high school doesn't appear ready to yield its lofty position in Class A ratings and in the conference.

"We're going to have seven starters back who should do all right next season," Lusk is quick to point out.

All-Area: Toughest team in state?

Carl also tied the mark at 18 for most falls.

Clark is the only junior on the senior-dominated first team. The young wrestler had an outstanding year with 36 victories in 45 trips on to the mats. He won the tough Great Lakes 8 Conference title at 126. He will be a power to reckon with statewide next season.

Davis is an excellent all-around athlete who ended his prep wrestling career with a 34-10 record, the Northwest Suburban Conference title at 132-pounds and a fourth place finish in the regionals.

Pittman played a key role in helping Wayne win for both the conference and district titles for the third consecutive year. The 138-pound senior grappler piled up 43-9 record this season.

An unanimous choice at 145 is Wayne senior Doug Cunningham who also earned a league title en route to a 41-9-0 won-lost-tied season in his senior year.

Coulston is no stranger to All-Area honors. He earned a berth as a football player and his excellent effort as a wrestler gave him the nod at 155. Mark's fine 35-7 record included victories at the Western Wayne, Plymouth Salem, league, regional and a fifth place medal in state competition.

Rize, Wayne's inspirational leader, hobbled through the season on a bum knee but no one dared underestimate his wrestling acuity.

The good-looking senior amassed a 29-6 won-lost record which earned for him a league title and statewide recognition as one of the best in his profession. There is little doubt that if he had not been handicapped by the injury, Kevin would have been a medalist at the state finals.

Slocum is another versatile athlete who excelled on the gridiron and the mats. He has been the Suburban 8 Conference champ at 185-pounds for an unprecedented three years.

Randy finished fourth in the state, a feat he accomplished a year ago at 167-pounds. He has the most falls (13) and takedowns for the Bellevue team.

Romulus' sturdy-built heavyweight Ed Abbott has already signed a national letter of intent to attend Michigan State University next fall. An excellent athlete, who stands 6-4 and tips the scales well over the 200-pound mark, Abbott compiled a 25-4 over-all record in his senior year.

"He's quite a wrestler when you consider his premier sport is football," said Coach Lgoan. "We're going to miss him around here."

Jr. Eagles claim 4 mat medals

Romulus' newly-formed AAU age group wrestling team, the Junior Eagles, performed like seasoned veterans at the Southeastern Open in Algonac.

The Junior Eagles came away from the invitational with four medals: in the 11-12 age group Troy Williams placed second in the 85-pound class while teammate Ken Franklin also was runnerup in the 119-pound category in the same age classification.

Other medalists were Michael Phillips, third (90) and Dean Suiter, also third, in the heavyweight division.

The Junior Eagles are coached by John Wood and Pete Silveri.

Wayne's Claborn competes in NAIA

Former Wayne Memorial grappler and All-Area candidate Randy Claborn is proving tough in collegiate wrestling these days.

The 177-pound junior at Ferris State College recently competed in the NAIA National Wrestling Tournament held at Edinboro, Pa.

Randy split his first two matches which eliminated him from further competition.

Claborn qualified for the trip to Edinboro after claiming second place individual honors in the NAIA District 23 Tournament.

In his first year on the squad, Claborn emerged as FSC's second leading scorer with 74 points which included four seconds and six decisions.

He compiled a 15-10-1 over-all record and a 9-2-1 mark in dual matches.

Coach Tom Kern's grapplers racked up a 6-5-1 dual match record this season and finished fifth at the Great Lakes Conference Tournament and fourth at the District 23 Tournament.

Ex-Romulus cage star leads Titan scorers

All-Area cager, Johnny Long, from Romulus High School, again led the University of Detroit basketball team in scoring this season.

In his sophomore season, Long poured in 532 points, giving him a two-year total of 977 points. Only Dave DeBusschere bettered the 1,000 point barrier in two years.

Long led the Titans in scoring in 16 of the 27 regular season games. He scored a career-high 37 points in U-D's victory over Oakland University.

Long's 1975-76 totals represent improvements over those of his freshman season. Through the past season he averaged 19.7 points per game, up from 17.1 points per game the previous season.

He also was one of the Titans' leading rebounders, averaging 8.9 caroms per game. Long was second only to Terry Tyler in this category. It was also an improvement over his freshman season when he averaged 6.5 rebounds per game.

Long began to put things together midway through the season, rarely falling below the 20-point mark scoring. Against two of the Titans' toughest opponents, North Carolina and Marquette, Long scored 26 and 21 points, respectively.

His performance this season earned Long on honorable mention in The Sporting News' All-American balloting.

Babe Ruth tryouts are set

New and old baseball equipment will head the agenda when the Belleville-Van Buren Babe Ruth League holds its next baseball talks.

The talks are set for 7 p.m., Thurs., March 25 at the Van Buren Township Hall, Tyler Rd.

The league will also hold baseball tryouts on April 3 and 10 beginning at 10 a.m. with the 13 to 15 age group players.

The Connie Mack League hopefuls should report at noon on the same dates.

Baseball tryouts will be held on the diamond behind the high school, 501 W. Columbia.

Romulus golfer gets ace

If the remainder of the golfing season is anything like last Monday's outing for Romulus' Rex Ferrero, he'll be changing professions.

Ferrero, who has been swinging golf clubs for three years, fired a hole-in-one at Shady Hollow Golf Course in Romulus.

It was only his second trip to the course this season.

The Romulus golfer used a 5-wood to ace the 200-yard 16-hole. He carried a 43 for the day.

"This is the first time I ever carded an ace," Ferrero said, "And was I surprised!"
